

Directed Verdict Won on Behalf of Yale-New Haven Hospital

Attorneys Eric Stockman and Sandy Roussas recently prevailed in a court-side trial on behalf of Yale-New Haven hospital and its nursing staff. A former patient alleged that he was injured by stepping on the cap of a syringe left in his room by the Yale-New Haven Hospital staff. Plaintiff claimed the injury required three surgeries and left him permanently disabled. Attorneys Stockman and Roussas prevailed on their motions to preclude plaintiff's experts from testifying and, after plaintiff's case was concluded, won a directed verdict on behalf of the Hospital.

Contact Us

Please contact Eric J. Stockman or Sandy T. Roussas at 203.821.2000 or www.npmlaw.com.

E. Stockman

Eric J. Stockman, a partner with Neubert, Pepe & Monteith, P.C., practices in the areas of Medical Malpractice & Hospital Liability Defense, Professional Malpractice & Liability Defense and Commercial Litigation. Attorney Stockman represents hospitals, doctors and local practice groups, as well as individual and corporate defendants, in all aspects of litigation, including medical malpractice, commercial liability, premises liability, trade secrets, and products liability.

S. Roussas

Sandy T. Roussas, an associate with Neubert, Pepe & Monteith, P.C., practices in the areas of Medical Malpractice & Hospital Liability, Professional Malpractice & Liability Defense and Commercial Litigation. Attorney Roussas is experienced in representing individuals and institutional health care providers in medical malpractice and general liability claims.